Cleaning up your sewing space

At last, after a summer that took me away from my sewing room, I had three solid days that I could work, catch up, clean up and finish some projects. The 10 yards of flannel from my mother became 5 Bright Hopes Quilts. The storybook quilt, The Seasons Sewn, finally got its last season. Labels are on! The pieces from my first vest robin became a vest that is too small for me. (Who do I know that is skinny that I give Christmas presents to? Or do I keep it for the day I become skinny again?) My part in the present vest robin is finished. (145 minutes to embroider – what was I thinking?) I was thinking of getting the vacuum cleaner out when my eye caught all these plastic envelopes. I didn't remember putting patterns up there. – OH, my gosh!! 8 QPC blocks!! At what guild meeting had I recklessly pick these up. So I get to work. They are easy. But how long have I had them? Can I look Carol Rouse in the eye when I bring them back or do I surreptitiously try to sneak them back on the table at guild?

This may have happened to many of us. For those of you new to guild, you may be asking – what's QPC? Quilt Project Committee has two branches-AM and PM. Loveta Fowler is in charge of QPC AM and Carol Rouse, QPC PM. Stop by and take a look at some of the projects. If you haven't tried a technique before, this may be your chance. If you're not sure how to do it, Carol or Loveta or one their trusty helpers will be happy to coach you. The quilts become part of the auction each year and you can have a stitch or two in all of the projects. The important part is to bring back finished what you check out. All of our sewing areas can get out of control occasionally. :>) But these dedicated people need those blocks back so the projects can continue apace. I am going to try to fix a place just for QPC items so that I know whether I have checked something out and whether I have finished them to go back to Guild.

Check out the story on page 4 to see more about QPC.

Quilt Projects Committees

Chair: Loveta Fowler, a.m.

Carol Rouse, p.m.

Sometimes at the monthly Guild meeting one hears the cryptic phrase “QPC”. Many members, old and new, are not able to decipher this acronym. QPC stands Quilt Projects Committees; there is an “a.m.” and a “p.m” branch, sharing common goals.

The first Quilt Projects Committee was formed shortly after the Greater San Antonio Quilt Guild was founded in 1989. It began as a way for members to expand their quilt skills and as a source of quilts for the auction and for quilters of the ITC Committee. Initially only meeting during the day, in about 1994 an evening group was established so that members who were employed could participate. The chair of the QPC a.m. is Loveta Fowler, 945-8230; the chair of the QPC p.m. is Carol Rouse, 699-9363.

Loveta Fowler and Carol Rouse

Each committee selects quilt blocks or quilt patterns which it thinks the members will enjoy. Instructions are written and fabric is cut; then these are put into plastic bags and taken to the Guild meetings as kits. The kits might require basic piecing, paper or foundation piecing, appliqué or embroidery. As members sign out the kits they are given brief oral instructions, if needed, and asked to call the phone number included in the kit if a problem or question should arise while constructing the block. There is usually a generous amount of time allowed before the finished blocks are due to be returned.

When the completed blocks are gathered the committees continue with the quilt making - setting the blocks together, adding sashing and borders, layering batting and backing, and, perhaps, the actual quilting. The Guild Auction Action Squad (GAAS) Committee is given several quilt tops for completion and inclusion in the annual auction. Usually there will be between fifty and eighty quilts in the auction that began as QPC kits. One or two finished tops are donated to the ITC Committee’s quilters for demonstrations at both the Institute of Texan Cultures and at the Guild show. Occasionally a quilt from QPC hands will be taken into the Guild’s own collection. Over the course of a year more than one hundred twenty service hours are accumulated by QPC, furthering the Guild’s stated object of quilt education.

The QPC a.m. group meets at ten o’clock on the third Thursday of each month, excluding holidays, at the Alamo Stitchin’ Post (5315 Walzem Road). The QPC p.m. group meets at the Hancock Fabrics Store on Bandera near Huebner Road (7046 Bandera Road), if the chair is notified in advance - she doesn't want to be the only one to show up. The committees welcome all members. There is no long term commitment required. There are many tasks to be done - from measuring and cutting (accurately!) to putting the kits into zippy bags - the old adage that "many hands make light work" definitely holds true.

If you would like to help QPC, please call Loveta Fowler (a.m. group) at 945-8230, or Carol Rouse (p.m. group) at 699-9363. And remember, the more the merrier.

COMMUNITY OUTREACH UPDATE

Fall at the Alamo

The show must go on, and it did! Mary Ruth Flores was unable to attend Fall at the Alamo on October 8th and she was sorely missed. (We wish you a speedy recovery from surgery, Mary Ruth.) However, wearing authentic period costumes, Betty Tope, Carol Rouse, Renee Bradley, Terry Hooe and Bobbie Ashley carried on by sharing their quilt making knowledge and skills with visitors as they quilted at the frame at the Alamo. If you missed the opportunity to enjoy Fall at the Alamo this year, we encourage everyone to participate next year. If you would like to join this unique community outreach group, please contact: Mary Ruth Flores, Chair, Fall at the Alamo Committee.

Institute of Texas Quilters

On a recent rainy October morning, ITC quilters Kay Allison, Ann Blake and Kolodzie Harper added a charming batted, backed, and basted quilt top owned by guild member Ann Worswick's to the quilt frame. The maker of Ann's hand embroidered state flowers quilt top is not known; however, the quilt top is thought to have been made during the 1930s. The quilters mentioned that the classic flower patterns may still be available. For more information, check out: www.quiltsbydesigns/kansascitystar.html If you have questions about becoming a member of the ITC Quilters, please contact: Lucille Shean, Chair, ITC Quilters.

Youth Alternatives

We received another letter of appreciation from Roy Mass' Youth Alternatives, Inc. for the guild's generous donation of beautiful fabrics, clothes and other items. And thanks to the generosity of Sandra Retzloff, our guild had a snuggly, colorful quilt to donate to Youth Alternatives' annual fund-raising auction supporting children who are experiencing some type of crisis in their lives. The sad news is Youths Alternatives recently experienced a fire in their laundry room and lost many blankets and bed linens. If you would like to donate similar items to replenish their stock, please contact: Jean Powell, Chair, Youth Alternatives

Storybooks and Quilts to Go

In The Seasons Sewn, Ann Whitford Paul tells children "how names of patchwork quilt patterns tell us about life in our country during the nineteenth century." The quilt block patterns Dea Jae Shore selected for the 4 seasonal wall hangings she made for the storybooks and quilts project give us some great hints. Can you find the Turkey Tracks, Album, Mixed T and Fish blocks in this picture? Which seasons of the year do you think Dea Jae's blocks reflect? Barbara Gilstad, Chair, Storybooks and Quilts to Go Committee
