President's Notes

Last month I did not have a chance to welcome new Guild members, Jena Kubik, Cris Gutierrez and Carol Steely, and this month welcome Sharon Wilson. So very glad you joined our guild and looking forward to quilting with you.

Huge thank you and job well done to Ellen Hernandez, 2012 Auction Chair. The beautifully created quilts by Guild members made for some lively bidding. A new introduction this year, the Silent Auction, made over $1,000. Thanks to all the Guild members who contributed to the Auction and especially Ellen and her Auction committee.

The 2011 Ethel Howey Grant winner, Barbara Sumlin, gave the Guild a great program at the October meeting, love all the "helpful hints". The small flower top from her Friday class was beautiful.

Welcome new Board members, President-Ida Blankenship, 2nd VP Information-Janet Craig, 4th VP Services-Gail Dickman, 5th VP Community Outreach-Sherry Durringer, and Secretary-Sylvia Jolet. Thank you for saying yes.

Just a reminder, starting in 2013, you can elect to receive the Newsletter via email, free, or via mail for $15.00. There is a space on the membership renewal form to indicate your preference. If the cost creates a hardship please see Melanie McInnis 2nd VP for Information, or Cindy Shutt Treasurer.

As we celebrate Thanksgiving please remember the soldiers, sailors, airmen, and Marines in distant lands.

Janet Miller, President, GSAQG

Ellen Hernandez received a Calico Rose for all her hard work on the Auction.

Ruth Felty won the Ethel Howey Grant for 2012. We look forward to Ruth teaching us everything she learns during her experience.

Congratulations Ruth!

The results of Barbara Sumlins Class on Fri were shown off during Bring n' Brag. Everyone had a GREAT time learning from Barbara!

You Know You Are a Quilter If...

There's more fabric in the house than food.
"Fat Quarters" are not the heaviest part of your body.

Your ironing board is always up, but you never iron clothes.

You pet fabric.

People are always picking thread off of you.

You can measure a scant  $\frac{1}{4}$ " by eye.

Featherweight doesn't have anything to do with boxing.

Your UFO's are not from outer space.

You clean up your sewing room and they think you're leaving.

You have a "stash" and it isn't illegal

Storybooks and Quilts to Go

September was a busy month for the Storybooks committee. Many thanks to Sandra Retzloff, Gail Dickman, Marge Swaney and Linda Kirk for helping distribute 67 titles to twelve schools for use in the fall semester. A new participant this year is Sul Ross Middle School. They requested quilts to display in their beautifully remodeled library for its grand opening on November 14. They will also be using the quilts with their 6th graders this semester.

The display this summer at Forest Hills Public Library generated so much interest among their patrons that they've begun their own Bee! A group of quilters meets there every week to make quilts for Project Linus.

Rachel Barlow returned two completed quilts at the October meeting. Carol Steely and Glenda Harris each adopted a book, and Ruth Felty volunteered to handquilt a top for "The Pinata Quilt". Thank you all for taking on these projects so close to the holidays. The children really appreciate all your efforts.

Pieces From The Past - Gingham Submitted by Ellen Hernandez

What do Dorothy, 007, and Bridget Bardot have in common? They all wore memorable gingham. Dorothy had a blue gingham jumper/dress, 007 wore pink gingham on the beach in Thunderball, and Bridget donned a gingham wedding dress.

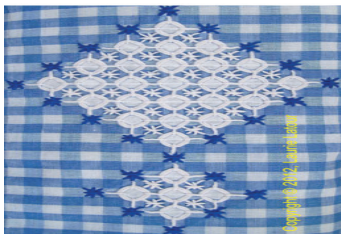

Gingham fabric was originally a stripe and made in Dutch occupied Indonesia. It was named after the Malay word ging-gang and French word guingan meaning stripes. Known to have been shipped to Europe and the American colonies as early as 1621, several countries lay claim to the gingham design and have incorporated it into their culture. In India, the gamucha is a gingham towel used to dry the body. In Indonesia the contrasting colors represent the battle between good and evil. The Japanese place a spiritual value on gingham, using it to wrap around statues when a child dies. The African Masai have used the pattern for thousands of years and it is part of their national costume. Southern Germany takes credit for the origin of gingham, using the traditional blue and white even in their flag. Not to be undone, the Italians say gingham is from Northern Italy and the French call it Vichy from the province where they feel it originated. In the US gingham seems to be as American as apple pie.

Originally made of 100% cotton with indigo dye, gingham generally refers to a two color even-sized checked fabric which has no right or wrong side. In the mid 1800s new synthetic dyes were used in England and the fabric was manufactured there and in the US, using cotton imported from India.

Gingham was inexpensive, washed well and quickly made the scene as tablecloths, curtains, and children's clothing. In the 1970s it was even called 'the tablecloth pattern.' Gingham made the transition from school uniforms to Hollywood and to couture fashion. A polyester blend became cheaper to manufacture, and gingham has also be made using wool, silk, linen, and vinyl.

Gingham became popular as a foundation for smocking, especially in children's clothing. Chicken-scratch, Amish embroidery, depression lace, gingham lace, gingham tracks, lace stitch and snowflake embroidery are all names used for patterned work done with floss or pearl cotton on gingham fabric. Relatively easy to do and inexpensive, it became popular during the Depression. It was not unusual to see these lace patterns used on blocks for quilts.

Other checked fabrics include: chambray which has color woven over and under each white thread creating an almost solid color; shagbark which is woven a bit loose giving it texture; uneven colorful checks and stripes of non-colorfast madras plaids originally from India; tartan plaid with different sized checks, and buffalo checks with even larger squares and usually more than two colors. There is also shepherd's check (even sized twill), houndstooth check (pointy-shaped), Glen plaid (broken checks), windowpane (lines thick & far apart), graph, tattersall (like graph but alternating colors), mini check, and pin check (looks almost like a solid.)
